Happy New Year from LCMS!

Classes and lessons are back in full swing this week after Christmas break. We are looking forward to a January filled with activity as student ensembles resume rehearsals and teachers hold recitals in preparation for the Scholarship & Awards Festival in February. There's also a lot of great concerts to look forward to this month.

LCMS would like to thank everyone who supported our poinsettia and Evening at Miller Gardens fundraisers, which were very successful. Thanks to Darvonda Nurseries for their support!

If you are interested in Orff or Suzuki Violin Prep classes, please contact the office as we are starting new classes at this time. Registrations for Babies & Toddlers classes and private lessons are accepted throughout the year.

Guitar Faculty Concert & Workshop

January 13, 2012 at 7:30pm

Featuring performances from Ray Pullen, Tim Stacey, Paul MacDermot and BJ Block, joined by Sam Cartwright on drums.

Come join us for a FREE interactive concert and workshop featuring LCMS guitar and bass faculty. This will be an evening of performances and insights on a variety of styles from Rock, Jazz and Blues, Fusion to Classical. Bring your guitar to try out some of the tricks of the trade, or come just to listen. There will also be a Q&A period and an opportunity to visit with faculty. Whether you're just starting out, or are looking to reach the next level in your playing, this will be an evening not to be missed!
